IT Declaration

Besides helping you process your monthly pay runs, Zoho Payroll handles your employees' Income Tax saving investments. Employees can declare the investments that they've made and submit proofs for the same, and Zoho Payroll automatically calculates the Income Tax based on the type and amount of each investment. The main incentive for employees' to declare their investments is that it reduces their net taxable income, thereby decreasing the amount they need to pay as Income Tax.

How can employees declare their investments?

- Employees can declare their proposed investments and anticipated expenses through the IT declaration. This typically happens at the beginning of the financial year or when the employee joins the company.
- Zoho Payroll calculates the employees' net taxable income based on the investments declared and deducts the correct amount of taxes each month.
- When the end of the financial year nears, employees would need to submit proofs for each investment that they declared earlier that year.
- You can review the proofs through the Approvals module and enter an approved amount for each investment.

- Once you click the Confirm for IT Calculation button, the approved amounts will be applied to the income and a new net taxable income will be derived.

IT Declaration in Zoho Payroll

Keeping up with the changes proposed in the Union Budget for 2020, Zoho Payroll has introduced the option to choose between the new and the old tax regimes while submitting IT Declaration. Employees can submit their IT Declaration through the employee portal once you release it. However, for employees for whom you haven't enabled employee portal, you can submit it by following these steps:

- Go to the Employees module.
- Select the employee for whom you want to submit the IT Declaration.
- Move to the Investments tab.
- Select Submit Declaration.
- Add the investments under IT Declaration tab.
- Click Submit and Compare once you've added all the investments.

FAQ

What is income tax declaration?

In the beginning or during the financial year, employees are required to declare all the IT saving investments and expenses they've planned for that year in your Payroll application. This process is known as IT Declaration.

Does Zoho Payroll support computing taxes according to the New Tax Regime?

Yes, employees can choose between the new and the old tax regimes and declare investments to compute tax accordingly in Zoho Payroll.

Can I switch between tax regimes in the middle of the fiscal year?

Yes, you can switch between tax regimes and modify investments as long as the

- The first payroll for the financial year is completed
- IT Declaration submission is not locked
- POI is not processed

FAQ

Is there an option to view tax liability before submitting investment declarations?

Yes, you can view the total tax liable according to both the regimes. Enter the investment declarations and click Submit and Compare. You will be redirected to the tax comparison page wherein tax liable under the two regimes will be displayed.

Can the declaration be changed after proof of investment is submitted?

Yes, the IT declaration can be changed after POI submission, provided the IT Declaration is unlocked. However, it will not have any effect on the proof of investment or the income tax calculation once the POI processing month starts.

Note: POI (reviewed or in awaiting approval state) will be considered for calculation from the start of the POI processing month.
